

CLIMATE EQUITY & RESILIENCE SUMMER INSTITUTE

An immersive summer program for current and recent graduate students.

June 16 - July 4, 2025

Build Lasting Connections

This program brings together individuals integrating climate justice and resilience into their work, research, and daily life.

Explore New Perspectives

Learn from guest speakers with diverse experiences, both in the classroom and during a week-long stay at Pack Forest.

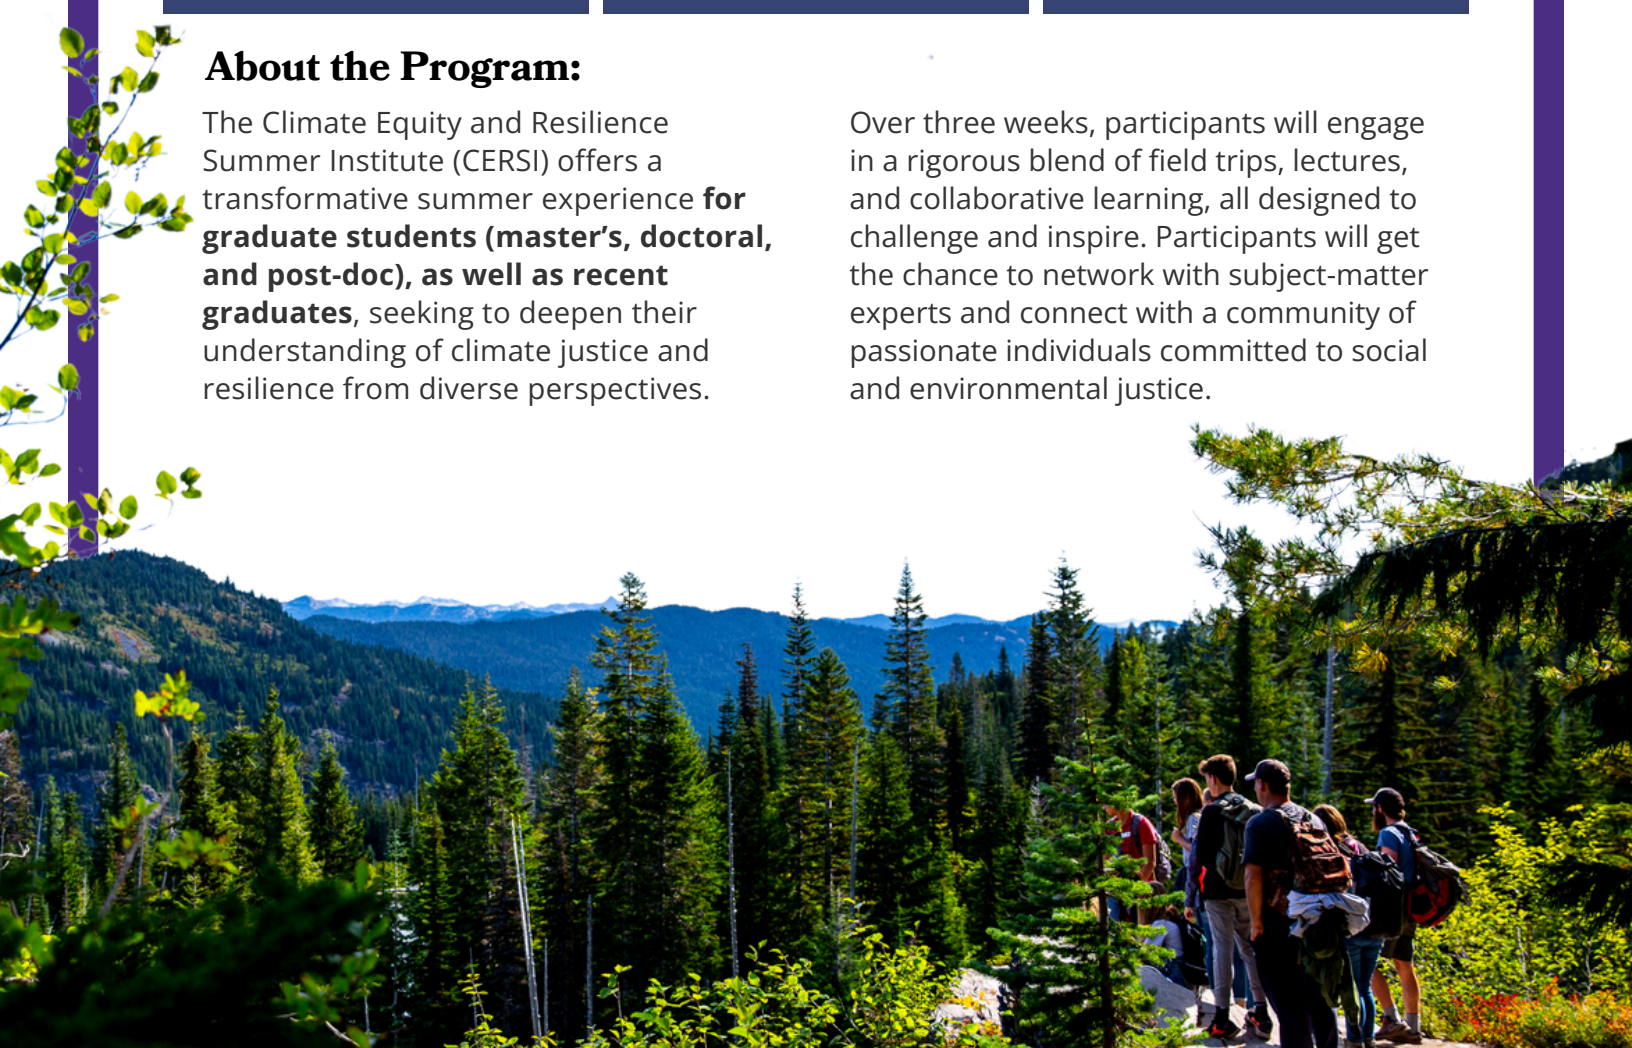

Experience Summer in the Pacific Northwest

Ten spots are available for non-Seattle students, with housing, dining, and partially covered flights included.

About the Program:

The Climate Equity and Resilience Summer Institute (CERSI) offers a transformative summer experience for graduate students (master's, doctoral, and post-doc), as well as recent graduates, seeking to deepen their understanding of climate justice and resilience from diverse perspectives.

Over three weeks, participants will engage in a rigorous blend of field trips, lectures, and collaborative learning, all designed to challenge and inspire. Participants will get the chance to network with subject-matter experts and connect with a community of passionate individuals committed to social and environmental justice.

Questions? Get in touch with our team!

You can email us at:
climate-equity@uw.edu

Application and Program Timeline:

Please note: The application deadline is March 17th, 2025. Selected candidates will attend orientation in May. This program runs from June 16-27 at UW Seattle; June 28-July 4 at Pack Forest.

